COCKTAIL SOAP SET

New York-based cosmetics entrepreneurs Malin + Goetz enjoy the finer things in life – and not just a good shampoo. An insight into another passion of theirs comes from the scents used in their soap set – rum, lime and mint, the ingredients of a Mojito. Individually, they are delicious; as a box set, they're knockout. Mojito Soap Set, $30, by Malin + Goetz, tel: 1.212 727 3777 (US), www.malinandgoetz.com

LIMITED EDITION COLOGNE
We all know that one way to attract a little extra attention is to invest in a new outfit. Which is why Acqua di Parma has this season looked to Murano glass designers for a bit of added chutzpah. The result is a fabulous collectable – the classic cologne in an original black-and-yellow bottle. Limited edition Acqua di Parma Murano, £490, from Harrods, tel: 44.20 7730 1234 (UK), www.harrods.com

PARADISE FOUND

ANTI-AGEING SKINCARE

There's a new cosmetic innovator on the block with a mission to bring us super-powered skincare. London-based, French-born Eric Cosson, a former journalist with a passion for chemistry, set up Found to create anti-ageing formulas based on two active ingredients – a synthetic viper venom, which is used in the serum Sarpa, and oyster extract, used in the Istr face cream. Sarpa, £94 for 30ml, Istr, £87 for 30ml, both by Found, tel: 44.845 868 5347 (UK), www.foundcosmetics.com

MANE MAN

STYLIST HAIRCARE RANGE

There's nothing really that new about Paul Labrecque, the latest stylist-designed haircare range to come out of New York – it contains a hedgerow of ingredients, smells great, and comes in slick packaging. However, it's refreshing to see it all come together in one line. Shampoos and conditioners, from $24, by Paul Labrecque, from Fred Segal, 8100 Melrose Avenue, Los Angeles, tel: 1.323 651 4129, www.paullabrecque.com
